[illegible]

[illegible]

[illegible]

The English Department of the College of General Studies at the University of Puerto Rico, Río Piedras Campus, seeks to fill a tenure track teaching position for the academic year 2021-2022.

Requirements and Preparation:

Ph.D. or ABD from an accredited university in TESOL, ESL/ESP, applied sociolinguistics, bilingual education, American Studies, Comparative Literature, English language literature, Black or Latino/a/x or Caribbean literature, or some field of applied sociolinguistics or TESOL. Teaching experience with adult learners and experience in literature and/or composition desirable. The candidate should demonstrate commitment to teaching first year students in English language composition and literature-based English courses. Teaching experience at the college level, ability to conduct research in area of specialty, commitment to teaching excellence, experience with diversity and technology. Native or English-level proficiency of Spanish, and experience with diverse student populations.

Applicants must have teaching experience in TESOL/ESL/ESP, knowledge of Interdisciplinary and Content Education, and the required academic preparation. Candidates must have research publications. Other requirements include: Prior experience for conducting research or producing creative work, publication and dissemination of knowledge, experience in higher education, training in teaching different assessment effectiveness (in person, hybrid, and online), professional experience in the development of programs, commitment to creating inclusive learning and academic or professional conferences. Under consideration, they must also submit the required documents stated below.

Responsibilities:

The selected candidate will teach in the evening schedule from Monday to Friday, and Saturdays, and through different modalities such as face-to-face and online. Teaching duties will be focused on ESL/ESP in developmental English courses. The candidate must also have the potential to develop a different discipline in the College of General Studies and collaborate with other academic disciplines. The candidate must publish articles, organize professional projects, serve in organizations, the union of teaching and learning, serve as mentor for academic flourishing, actively participate in departments, colleges, and university committees and activities. In addition, the candidate must comply with all the teaching responsibilities stated in the University of Puerto Rico bylaws.

The closing date for submitting the required documents will be April 26, 2021. Send one of the documents listed below to the following: [illegible]

1) Cover letter addressed to [illegible]
2) Updated curriculum vitae [illegible]
3) Transcripts of graduate studies [illegible]
4) Recommendations from recent employers and supervisors
5) Copies of degrees and certificates [illegible]
6) Copies of recent research, publications, [illegible]
7) Statement of teaching philosophy [illegible]
8) Statement of research interests [illegible]